

ZIKA VIRUS | The latest news

Now that Zika has arrived in the US, it's important to stay up-to-date on the facts whether you're traveling internationally, within the US, or even staying home.

here's the latest from our Intelligence and Medical Operations teams

MEMBER TESTIMONIAL | Anaphylaxis in Europe

Global Rescue member Kate Starrett suffered a potentially life-threatening reaction while living abroad with two young children, and she had trouble getting help at the local hospital. That's when she called Global Rescue. In her video testimonial, Kate tells the story of what happened next.

click here to watch the video

FROM OUR EXPERTS | Don't let thrills turn to chills

Just because the seasons change doesn't mean serious outdoor enthusiasts stay inside. But being safe during the winter months is about more than a warm coat and a thermos of coffee. Our experts share tips for outdoor survival when the temperature plummets.

click here to read more

CHICO FERNANDEZ | Hear from the legend

Listen to our exclusive interview with legendary angler Chico Fernandez, an International Game Fish Association Hall of Famer.

listen to the interview

MEMBER TESTIMONIAL | Stricken on safari

Scott Garrett was in the Namibian backcountry when he developed an airborne infection that went after his immune system. His breathing became labored, and soon he was coughing up blood. That's when he knew he needed to call Global Rescue.

click here to read Scott's story

NEW WEBSITE | Check out our new website

Our home on the web, GlobalRescue.com, just got better! This week, we are debuting the updated globalrescue.com, with a fresh look and feel, more user-friendly navigation, and some new pages and elements that we think you'll be very interested to see.

view the new site

Want to receive more content like this? Click here

STAY CONNECTED:

